Cutting Gardens, Food for the Soul

KENNETT SQUARE, PA (September 2020) - If there is any silver lining to be found in 2020, it's that we have 24 million new gardeners. Victory gardens, growing an edible garden in your home, were all the rage this year.

The next big trend to hit backyard gardens will be cutting gardens. People need food for the soul.

If 2020 taught us anything else, it's that we don't need many possessions, and our relationships are the most important things in our lives.

Gift giving will become much more thoughtful in 2021. Europeans have long had a tradition of giving flowers as gifts, and nothing makes people feel more special. From tussie-mussies to big bouquets, handpicked flowers from your own cutting garden will be the go-to gift.

Don't Wait Until Spring to Get Started

Now is the best time to buy and plant spring-flowering bulbs. If you have space, add one more raised bed. If not, devote a few rows of the vegetable garden to bulbs. In a pinch, you could always plant them in your landscape. Plant enough so you can leave a few standing.

There are hundreds of spring-flowering bulbs to choose from, from tulips to fragrant daffodils, to giant allium. And, don't forget the little guys, grape hyacinth, mini daffs, and even snowdrops would make a charming little arrangement.

Bulbs are early bloomers that will give your garden a jump start on spring. Giving and receiving flowers releases the feel-good hormones in our brains. Isn't it time to start planting a brighter future?

Flowerbulbs.com is a promotional agency for the flower bulb sector. Their goal is to educate and inspire new and experienced gardeners. They do not sell flower bulbs; they encourage consumers to visit their local independent garden centers. High-resolution images are available royalty-free when citing FlowerBulbs.com as the source.
